About St. Peter's in the Woods

St. Peter's in the Woods is a pastoral size church with the energy and mission focus of a much larger congregation. With about 85 worshippers on a Sunday, St. Peter's is an intergenerational faith community of young families, students, faculty and staff from nearby George Mason University, military retirees, new and longtime members. If you ask the average parishioner what attracted them - and then kept them engaged - at St. Peter's in the Woods, they'd tell you: the welcome is real, the community is genuine, and the worship designed to nurture and empower disciples to serve the world in Jesus' name. www.stpetersinthewoods.org
